AUDITORIUM

Today's Specials, Charlie Chaplin, Current Events, Dustin Farnum in A Sen of Old Erin and Damaged-No Goods, a Very Funny Sunshine

Those who have seen Marguerite Clark impersonate "Bab." Mary Rhinehart's winsome heroine in Bab's Dlary, will welcome her return to the screen in Bab's Matthee Idol, which will be the attraction at the Breed theatre today and Saturday. Bab's Matinee Idol is a screamingly humorous picture and bids fair to become one of the most popular of Miss Clark's productions. It is a whimsical story of a boarding school girl's first affair du coeur, as Bab grandiloquently calls it herself, and will appeal to girls of all ages, who will recognize themselves in Miss Clark's winsome screen portrayal of Bab. Other pictures on the bill include the Hearst-Pathe news and a big V comedy. and a big V comedy.

AUCTION SALE

by the Administratrix of the estate of the late Byron Stone, at the farm and residence, about two miles from Moosup and Central Village, Conn. on the Green Hollow road, so-called, on Cemedy.

Twas in old Tipperary that Dennis O'Bara fell in love with pretty Katle O'Grady, the little Irish mischlef maker who. was the plague and joy of his life. Dustin Farnum plays a fine Dennis and Winlfred Kingston a very fascinating Irish beauty, in A Son of Erin that came to the Auditorium theatre yesterday. It is a very picturesque Palles-Paramount photoplay. The supporting cast is Irish and the Irish scenes are very beautiful. Photographed excellently it fully maintains the high artistry of Auditorium programmes. Charlie Chaplin in The Fireman, was very funny and kept the large audience roaring as did also The Sunshine comedy, Damaged-No Goods.

THE SON OF A HIGH BROW DAME

I don't know what dear Percy'll do, I'm sure his heart will break,

I don't know what dear Percy'll do, I'm sure his heart will break,
With no one there his tes to brew, or bake for him a cake;
No one to tuck him into bed when he goes to rest;
No one to see that he is fed the things that he likes best
I'm sure his hands will be soiled, from cleaning dirty shoes—
Just think how he must be annoyed, being mixed with men so rude—
They say that in the army, there's men from every walk of life,
Men like John the butcher, the one who beats his wife;
The sah cart man he's in it too, our coachman James is theres.
They say he's kind of an officer; I don't think that is fair—
Just think of him ordering Percy 'round, and Percy must obey,
A person who depended on Percy for his pay.
I think I'll write to Washinton, and see what can be done!
A private in the army is no position for my son!
He must get up in the morning, dress himself, and make his bed,
Run around and exercise until he's nearly dead!
When through he marches back to camp, then with common food is fed,
And the work he has to do is very hard, 'tis said.
They say he has to shovel coal, dig trenches, carry wood,
In fact, he does the very things that common people should!
I think it is an outrage to treat my Percy so!
There's going to be a change when to Washington I ge.
Just think of him washing dishes, from which other people eat—
I'm sure some of those people are not fit to wash his feet!
The story I'm relating now I heard upon a train.

The story I'm relating now I heard upon a train. It came from the lips of a high brow dame.

I happen to know this Percy guy:
When he first hit camp at the grub he'd shy!
He didn't like the place, he said;
Often he sighed and wished he was dead!
The beans, they weren't cooked enough—
Said he never ate such stuff!

Said he never ate such stuff!

For the pork his only word was "Phew!"

"If I eat such stuff I'll surely spew!"

The clothes he claimed had no style at all—

Never a change from the spring to the fall;

His dress was the same as the ragman's son;

Exactly the same from the shoes to the gun!

He was finding fault all the time-

He was finding fault all the time—

If you couldn't see him you could hear him whine.

At last the bunch got awful sore—

To tell the truth, he was a bore!

When he'd draw nigh they'd heave a sigh ,

And tell him the easiest way to die!

And tell him the easiest way to die:
As time flow by he hadn't a friend,
Though he had oceans of money to spend;
My he was sick through and through
With no one to tell his troubles to.
After a while he got wise to himself;
He began to worry about his health;
He started in to eat his beans; He liked them Well, so it seems;
At the pork he ceased to balk;
If he missed his share you'd hear him squawki

A regular guy he became at last— He learnt the game, and he learnt it fast; He's as good a skate as I ever met— And he'll do his share in this war yet! It goes to show that our Uncle Sam, Can take a boy and make him a man,

Or the son of the slums, it's just the same! THOMAS J. WALDRON, 34 Co. L. L. S.

THE PLAYGROUND OF DEAD CHILDREN

By GERTRUDE H. McGIFFERT

"It was always summer in the Playground of Dead Children and I stayed longest there." Soft moss grew here for tender stumbling feet, Low sosts upon smooth rocks they found, spice-seeds And aromatic leaves for feasts. Gay beads They hunted hid in fragrant pods, and sweet,
Tart berries far in witches' wild retreat.
Brisk Squirrels dropt them nuts, and water-reeds

Piped gladly when they danced upon the meads; Birds brought them tidings, brooks conveyed their fiset, Twas always summer and the days were bright With brightness lost from homes bereft and dark.
All seemed abundant, glad, save when at night
They wept for arms but dimly missed by day.
Then singing angels held them till the lark

Bid all God's cherished children wake and play.
